Hobbies: Who has time for hobbies? I enjoy trying new things, laughing with friends, and inviting my children to explore life to its fullest.

An interesting fact about me: Everything! I learn something new everyday.

Goals and Ambitions: I strive to give back to the community that has afforded me the foundation for the life that I am able to provide to my children. Through life experience, I recognize that the path at which you envision may not be as smooth as one might think. At this point in my life I embrace the road less traveled. My goals are to share life experience so that others can be inspired and motivated through their own bumps in the road. In the future, well after I have enjoyed my children's youth, I will endure earning my PH.D. or law degree.
